

Choosing a Long-Term Care Home

Making the decision to move to a long-term care home is a life-changing step for you and your family. It's important that you have all of the information you need to choose the home that is right for you. There are many things to consider, including the level of care you require, location, availability and cost.

Your CCAC Care Coordinator can provide you with information to assist you with your decision making. We strongly recommend that you and your family visit the homes you are interested in and ask questions before making a final decision.

Each person who applies for long-term care may choose up to five (5) homes anywhere in Ontario, in order of preference. These decisions will help determine the amount of time a person waits for long-term care. If your need for long-term care becomes more urgent, you are able to revise your selections to be placed more quickly. If you move to a home that is not your first choice, you may stay on the waiting list for your first choice.

About the Information in this Report

There are many factors to be considered when choosing a home. The size of the waiting list (number of people on the wait list) in homes you are considering may be important to you. This document provides information about waiting lists in long-term care homes in this region; the wait list is not an indication of wait time (how long an individual will wait to access care).

When reviewing this information, please note the following:

- Each individual may choose up to 5 homes and up to 3 bed types (basic, semi-private or private) in each home. This means that one person may be represented on multiple waitlists.

- The number of days waited are presented as the experience of 9 out of 10 people (90th percentile). You may wait for a longer or shorter period of time, depending on your circumstances and the number of available beds.
- The numbers below fluctuate based on a variety of factors; your CCAC Care Coordinator can provide you with information about the options that may best meet your individual needs.
